MONDAY, JULY 27, 1863.

DEATH OF Mr. CRITTENDEN.—We have received from Frankfort the painful intelligence that Mr. Crittenden is dead. He died yesterday morning at three o'clock. This intelligence will thrill the heart of the nation with peculiar grief. It will add a fresh shadow to the gloom that overhangs our stricken land. And, alas! it will die.

The death of Mr. Crittenden at any time would have been a national bereavement; his death at this time is a national calamity. It is scarcely hyperbole to say that Mr. Crittenden was the good angel of our country. A man of the loftiest integrity, a patriot of unsurpassed fidelity and of unequalled magnanimity, a statesman of the most extended and varied experience and of unfailing sagacity, an orator whose golden eloquence was the thrice-refined spirit of a just and honorable conciliation, and the solo survivor in active life of the master-spirits of the last generation of statesmen, whose intellects and wise counsels referred us to the glory of those statesmen of the Republic as the nation's topmost trophies, the splendors of a dying day, above all other men in the land, far above all other men, embodied the spirit and the principle to which under Providence every enlightened American looks for the salvation of the Republic.

He more fully than any other man who survives him impersonated the true genius of American patriotism in this mighty struggle for the preservation of American nationality. He was indeed the glass wherein true patriots did dress themselves.

But he is no more! The angel of our country has passed away. The mirror of our patriotism and of all other noble qualities lies broken upon the earth. Death, the Destroyer, has shattered it. The arc and princely Crittenden is dead. Yet though dead he lives—

Lives in death with glorious fame.

My deathless life beyond life insures and guides my countrymen forevermore.

THE ISSUE.—The issue to be determined at the approaching election in Kentucky is simple. It is familiar. It is in fact the old issue.

The condemnation of the misdeeds of this week and falsehood but fleeing administration does not constitute the issue. Not at all. Those misdeeds cannot be condemned positively in terms so strong for the Union party of Kentucky. The Union party itself in its platform has solemnly condemned them in terms which the great conservative party of the North has formally adopted as its own.

On this point the only difference between the Union party and the secession party is, that while both condemn the misdeeds of the administration, the Union party, regarding those misdeeds as not only false in principle but adapted to aid the rebellion, condemns them in order to make them more effectually aid the rebellion; and of course each party so condemns them to accomplish its particular end. In other words, both parties condemn the misdeeds of the administration, but the Union party condemns them for patriotic purposes in the way suited to accomplish patriotic purposes, whereas the secession party, regarding them instead as adapted to aid the rebellion, condemns them in order to make them more effectually aid the rebellion; and join the rebellion.

This is his argument; and it is unanswerable. This is his position; and it is impregnable.

It is the position of the platform of the Union party of Kentucky. It is the position of the Northern Democracy as represented by the wise and brilliant Seymour. It is the only position sanctioned by patriotism and by statesmanship. The Editor of the Democratic party and either the Union party or the secession party is not according to the order of things. These are the men who have the largest share of the influence in this country.

The secessionists of Kentucky avow in their platform that they are in favor of stopping the war by withholding supplies; that is to say, they are in favor of forcing the government to surrender to the rebellion. This is the sum and substance of their platform. It is exactly what they mean. Such is their policy. They of course will not have the power to carry out this policy in Congress; but they propose the election next Monday, to give the power to carry out this policy in the State into collision with the general Government in the attempt to carry out the hallo-box.

The withdrawal of the Senators and the Representatives from eleven States has the power to control measures for the prosecution of the war, and placed us in the position of a majority in the Senate, and so opposed to these measures, and so are our opponents.

We wish, WHILE PUTTING INTO OPERATION EVERY PEACEABLE MEANS OF COERCION, TO MAKE THE HALLO-BOX SILENT IN THIS, AND IN ALL OTHER WAYS.

WE DESIRE TO CORRECTLY BY THE HALLO-BOX.

WE MAY NOT ACCOMPLISH THIS IN THE PRESENT POSITION OF THE UNION, BUT WE CAN ACCOMPLISH IT IN THE FUTURE.

Captain of Morgan.—Should Illuminated raise the banner! Fire the big guns! There's wood news, great news! John Morgan, with whom was left of his command, has surrendered to Gen. Shackelford. The career of the bushwhacker leader is ended.

This event will fall like an ice bolt upon the hearts of the rebels and their sympathizers. The rebel Confederacy would sooner have an ordinary army of 25,000 men than Morgan and his troops. It must feel paralyzed by a limb that has lost its chief reliance. But the loss of the loyal men of Kentucky and of the loyal men of the neighboring States will bound upward like a twig from which a bird of evil omens has just flown.

We undertake not to say how John Morgan will be disposed of. He is in the right hands. Let him have justice. Of course he has already been made to surrender up the money which he lately compelled men to pay to him as the condition of his not burning their property of the law. There are still a considerable number of delinquents.

United States Assessors' Last Notice.
By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that Edgar Nease, Esq., United States Assessor, has extended the time at which lists of income returns, licenses, carriages, &c., may be made until the 31st of July. All who have not at that time returned their lists will be subject to prosecution for the full penalty of the law. There are still a considerable number of delinquents.

Sworn PRESENTATIONS.—Two sword presentations will take place at Masonic Temple Monday night. Major Faris, in command of Barracks No. 1, and Lieut. Browne, 6th Michigan Battery, are to be the fortunate recipients of the splendid gifts presented by their numerous friends and admirers, in both civil and military circles. The whole affair is to conclude with a magnificent ball, given by the ladies at Barracks No. 1, for the benefit of the sick soldiers in this city.

Col. Peirce, of the Twenty-ninth Massachusetts, who has been in command at Paris for some time past, left for his native State on Monday last, to superintend the enrolment of the militia, under the conscription act. Lieut.-Col. Young, of the One Hundred and Eighteenth Ohio, has removed his headquarters from Cynthiana to Paris.

VOTING LIMITS.—It should be remembered it has been judicially decided that the police line of the corporate limits of the city of Louisville, and not the tax line, determines the voting place of residents.

The funeral of the Hon. John J. Crittenden will take place on Wednesday at ten o'clock from his residence in Frankfort.

We understand there was a very lively discussion at Warsaw on Monday last. Four candidates for Congress and two candidates for the Senate kept up the meeting for six hours. Captain Leathers, Dr. Doty, Mr. Menzies, and General Smith insisted upon their respective claims to a seat in Congress. Mr. Menzies, in the course of his remarks, described Mr. M. M. Bentin, giving his position principally as he himself has declared it, and adverted to the fact that Mr. M. B. was a candidate for the Legislature in Kenton county, and had been nominated by the Kenton delegation to the Covington Convention whichominated General Smith. It is called upon General Smith to answer and let the people of Gallatin know whether he would vote for Mr. Bentin or not. General Smith followed Mr. Menzies, but failed to answer the question. General S. did not answer another question which was put to him. He was asked if he would have voted for the "conscription bill." The people of the District do not know how the General would have voted on that question, although the vote of Mr. Menzies against it is the foundation of severe condemnation on the part of General Smith's friends.

Gen. Smith, we are told, is attended by two civil aids, or a sort of political staff. As soon as the General got through with his speech, one of these aids brought to the Court-house a large bundle of hand-bills, and scattered them in the crowd.

This hand-bill, which we have seen, consists of three newspaper pieces, and a little endpaper stuff added by some Republican who gives no signature.

The first piece is from some of the Grant delegation to the Covington Convention, and undertakes to answer our strictures on that meeting. It is enough to say of this piece, that one of its signers, Mr. A. J. Hume, declares that he tried, but tried in vain, to get the Union platform adopted at Covington. After that failure, it was his duty as a Union man, as it seems to us, to withdraw from the Convention that was shown to be Republican.

The next piece is signed "Pendleton." This is understood to be written by an ancient lawyer at Frankfort, who shows that he is an administration man all through the article, and his effort was effectually answered by us at the time. Why did not Gen. Smith put "Pendleton" No. 2 into his handbill?

The third piece is signed "A. Loyal Citizen of the Sixth District." The writer, according to the hand-bill, is a gentleman of Harrison county. From his style and awkward guessing at facts he may be considered a blundering lawyer or a professional jurymen. He says that "Mr. Menzies was a member of the (the Louisville) convention." This blunder illustrates the character of the whole article, which from one end to the other is heavy reasoning based upon misstatements. Mr. Menzies was not a member of that convention, but was a friend to all the delegates that represented Kenton, although there was a vacancy to fill, and his name was suggested to them. The fatal objection to him was that he was a Union man and not a Republican. The errors of the closing piece of this hand-bill are unworthy things, and are plain to the people of the District. We rejoice to hear that the prospects of Mr. Menzies election are bright and promising.

We have full confirmation of the barbarous murder of surrendered Union men by Morgan's fellow scoundrels in Cumberland county. When he crossed the river at Burkesville, early in July, he attacked a small detachment of the Ninth Kentucky cavalry in the bottom grounds of Marrowbone creek. Our men were overpowered by superior numbers; Capt. James Wilson, with others of the Twelfth Kentucky cavalry, hurried to their assistance, but reached the spot too late. Capt. Wilson informs us that he conversed with two of the men of the Ninth before they died, and they stated when Morgan's men dashed upon them and called upon them to surrender, knowing resistance to be useless, they did so. Their captors then demanded their pocketbooks and their guns, and afterwards deliberately shot them with their own weapons. Some of the mounted rebels leaned from their horses, placed their carbines to the very hearts of our poor fellows, and thus butchered them. As these facts can be proved beyond all controversy, we cannot see why some of the scoundrels of the Morgan gang should not suffer by way of retaliation. If Gen. Burnside wishes to take the matter up, Capt. James Wilson, of the Twelfth Kentucky cavalry, will furnish him all the necessary evidence.

Young Al. Hynes, who was captured by Morgan, after a most gallant fight, at Bardstown, succeeded in effecting his escape at Winchester, Ohio. Morgan had Hynes conveyed in a carriage throughout his tedious march through Indiana and Ohio, and given orders to shoot him if he attempted to escape.

There was a rumor in Nashville on Saturday that Chattanooga had been captured by one division of Rosecrans's army, under the brave Gen. Sheridan, and that no rebels were found there. We don't believe a word of it.

The Democrat recommends the purchase of the "live-twenty" national bonds advertised by Jay Cooke of Philadelphia. How long since it was swearing at Jay Cooke and the like?

PERSONAL.—Parson Brownlow was in this city on Saturday on route for Covington, where his family are at present.

We are indebted to Mr. O. J. Carr, Adams Express messenger, for repeated favors.

The Despatch understands that a band of robbers visited the residence of Mr. Wolfe, some nine or twelve miles north of Nashville, a few hours ago, and after searching his house compelled him, at the muzzle of the pistol, to give up his money, amounting to $100. They also stole jewellery and dress from his daughter amounting to about $200. They visited the house of Mr. Aville, a neighbor of Mr. Wolfe, and compelled him to give them $75.

RELEASER.—The following persons were on Saturday released by Maj. D. C. Fitch upon taking the oath of allegiance to the United States and giving the required bond affixed to their respective names: Jacob Cunningham, bond in two thousand dollars; Joseph Wigington, bond in five thousand dollars; Stephen T. Lydic, bond in two thousand dollars. The above are citizens, and were charged with disloyalty to the government.

Lieut.-Col. Young, of the One Hundred and Eighteenth Ohio, has removed his headquarters from Cynthiana to Paris.

WOMAN ARRESTED.—Catherine Berche, living in the upper portion of the city, was on Saturday arrested on a charge of having bought soldiers' apparel, pants, boots, &c. She stoutly denied the allegation, but as the goods were found in her possession, she was handed over to the civil authorities, who will speedily investigate the case.

ARRESTED.—Laurence Roberts and Wm. M. Mense, citizens of Boyle county, Ky., were on Saturday present before the Provost Marshal on the charge of having stolen Government property. They were committed to the Military Prison, where their cases will await examination.

FATAL ENCOUNTER.—The Danville Tribune says on the 13th inst., a difficulty occurred between Sam'l Gordon and Augustus Rose, in which the former was struck by the latter with such force as to fell him to the ground. From the effects of the stroke or the fall Mr. Gordon died on the 16th inst.

Mrs. Morgan, the mother of the notorious John Morgan, arrived in Cincinnati last Friday from Lexington, Ky. She has gone there to see, if possible, her two sons, Lieut. C. H. Morgan and Col. Dick Morgan, brother of John, confined in the Military Prison at that place.

STRONK DEATH.—Mr. Warner Sinkhorn, a highly respectable citizen of Boyle county, fell dead in the county court clerk's office in Danville on Monday last. His death is supposed to have been caused by a congestive chill.

CAPTAIN ELMORE D. WARDER is the A. A. G. to General John H. Morgan, and we have seen paroles given to captured Federal officers, in his hand-writing, and drawn during the recent raid into Ohio.

LOUISVILLE JOURNAL

OFFICIAL.

BOARD OF COMMON COUNCIL.

THURSDAY EVENING, July 23, 1863.

Present, John G. Baxter, President, and all the members, except Messrs. Armstrong,

Brewer, Herbert, Kendrick, Kirkend, and Sims.

The reading of the journal of the previous session was dispensed with.

A message was read from the Mayor informing the Council that he had dismissed H.

B. Gandy, from the position, which was received and ordered to be filed.

The Engineer submitted the following contracts, which, on motion of Mr. Elliott, from
